Columbia Construction's SPD Completes The Broad Institute's Offices at Five Cambridge Center

(Boston, MA) Columbia Construction Company's Special Projects Division recently completed a 17,000 s.f. interior renovation for The Broad Institute. At the center of Kendall Square in Cambridge, MA, this Class A office building, located at Five Cambridge Center, is owned and managed by Boston Properties.

Designed by Black Cow Architects, a Nelson company, construction included the upgrade of the entire 13th floor, which features Teknion's Altos® architectural wall systems. The project's scope included new power for their five rack servers, installation of new tel/data, conference rooms and a kitchen/café. A focal point of the open lounge area is a serpentine table with specialty canopy lighting directly above.

In line with their interactive work environment, all perimeter office walls were covered with IdeaPaint to encourage and support Broad's highly collaborative culture.

This fast-track project was completed in seven (7) weeks.
